

EARTH FLAG AND ANTHEM CONTEST

The year is 2019. The spaceship has been traveling for nine months. Finally, it lands, the hatch opens and a spacesuited astronaut from the international crew steps out to plant the flag of planet Earth in the rusty Martian soil.

What does that flag look like?

World Beyond Borders is holding a contest for the design of an Earth flag and anthem. These should express the reality of an interdependent Earth and the ideal of a unified humanity. Further submission guidelines are listed below.

We will select five flag finalists and five anthem finalists. Their ideas will then be voted on by World Beyond Borders visitors. We will use the winning flag and anthem to share the vision of a unified Earth.

Submission Requirements

- * file format: .PDF, AI or PSD for Flag. Anthem should be .txt or .html. Or if you perform the anthem, save it as an .mp3
- * email to: eliw@mac.com or jaia@ucla.edu
- * deadline for submission: July 1st, 2003
- * Prize yet to be decided.
- * Winning entries become public domain.

Send questions to: eliw@mac.com or jaia@ucla.edu

World Beyond Borders is a website devoted to spreading a vision for the future that isn't restricted by arbitrary political boundaries of nations and the destructive imbalances created by sustaining them. Now more than ever we are coming to realize that a world beyond borders is the only solution for building a sustainable human civilization in which a global constitution and bill of rights provides liberty and justice for all. <http://www.worldbeyondborders.org>
